The Day Will Come

SHALL WE BE PREPARED TO MEET IT?

SOME SUGGESTIONS FOR THE COUNCIL RE. THE FIRE DEPARTMENT

That the Town of Vulcan is unprepared to meet the call of fire is the opinion of most of us, and it is our duty to help matters along by suggestion so as to lessen the danger of Vulcan being wiped out by fire if it ever gets started. Getting the two engines out is a matter of valuable minutes. An excellent suggestion has been put to the Vulcan Advocate, and after considering it we are willing to sponsor it and stand by it in order that it may be brought about, to the end that we may be able to face the danger of fire at any moment, day or night.

The suggestion is this, That the Council ought to bring about, AND ENFORCE a bye-law making it compulsory for every business place in this town to have on the premises a barrel of water and two fire buckets, or a chemical extinguisher, always ready for immediate use; That either the fire chief or the town constable be empowered to make inspection of each business house periodically to see that the barrels are full and the buckets or chemical extinguisher at hand.

And it is a good suggestion, too. A small outbreak that would otherwise prove disastrous to the town could be quelled before it got really started, and that would be the end of it. The cost would be very small in consideration of the safety, and we believe that there is no business man in this town who would not willingly carry out the idea. The bye-law would be necessary for newcomers, not for our present tradesmen who have interests at stake. And while the council are considering this, they might also consider the question of buckets for the bucket brigade, being at hand in the new fire hall; also sacking for beating out a prairie fire, such as occurred near the town a few days ago, when everybody had to go from the fire hall home again to look for sacks with which to beat out the flames.

The Easter Service

The services of the Presbyterian Church, which were held in the Oddfellows Hall morning and evening, on Easter Sunday, were both largely attended. Holy Communion was administered at the morning service.

The floral decorations of the hall were such as have never been seen in Vulcan before. In rich profusion, in front of the reading desk were placed all kinds of flowers and ferns, as also at the sides. After each service the congregation inspected the flowers.

The evening service, which was splendidly attended, was of a musical character. The anthems by the choir were well sung, and the solos by Mr. Howes and Mr. J. A. Jones were much enjoyed. At each service many of the congregation signed the call to the Rev. D. K. Allan.

The thanks of the congregation are due to the kind friends who generously loaned the floral decorations.

The Call Sustained

The Presbytery of High River met in Nanton on Thursday evening last April 17th.

The Rev. H. W. Toombs was inducted into the pastoral charge of Nanton. The people turned out well and gave Mr. and Mrs. Toombs and family a hearty welcome to their midst.

A very pleasant social hour was spent immediately after the induction.

Among the other business which had to come before the Presbytery was the "call" from Vulcan to the Rev. D. K. Allan. The call was extensively signed, every communicants name being thereon, together with those of sixty-six adherents. The Moderator and Presbytery remarked on the fact as being something unique.

It was sustained as a gospel call, and after a few well chosen remarks from Dr. Ferguson, who represented the congregation in the absence of Mr. H. F. Richardson, who was unable to be present owing to indisposition, the call was handed to Mr. Allan.

In accepting the call Mr. Allan spoke of his connection with Vulcan for over two years and unhesitatingly accepted the call, feeling that the call to service was as great as ever in Vulcan.

The induction service will take place in Vulcan on Thursday April 30th, at 3 o'clock p.m. The members of Presbytery who are to take part are the following: Rev. J. M. Innes, Moderator, will reside and induct; the Rev. J. W. McKenzie will narrate the steps and address the people; the Rev. J. T. Ferguson, D. D., will address the minister and the Rev. H. W. Toombs will preach the sermon.

R.N.A. Social

The members of the Vulcan R. N. A. Lodge gave a very successful social evening in the Oddfellows' Hall on Friday evening last, when there was a very good attendance of members and their friends.

The most part of the evening was taken up by a whist drive, which proved of great interest, with an exciting finish as far as the ladies were concerned. For the gentlemen, Mr. Peter Terry won the first prize and Mr. Charterson secured the consolation prize. For the first prize for ladies Mrs. Hendry and Mrs. George Robson tied and had to cut for it. Mrs. George Robson was the fortunate lady.

Croquet was also played for a prize. Mr. Pepper won the first for the gents and Mrs. Pepper got the first prize for the ladies while the consolation prizes were secured by Mr. C. Tuttle and Mrs. Gardner.

An excellent luncheon was served. Mrs. Wm. A. Schenck and Mrs. Peter Terry were the hostesses of the evening.

Tennis Club Organized

A meeting of interested persons was held in the Imperial Hotel on Thursday evening last to consider the formation of a tennis club. A goodly number were present and much promising enthusiasm was shown.

Tennis courts, of which there are to be two at first, with possible extension in the near future, in order to accommodate the membership are to be on the edge of town near the baseball ground.

Mr. P. W. L. Clark is to be the president, and Mr. Tennant the secretary.

Men's Corduroy Pants reg. $4.25 for $3.25—at Spooner's.

Dance And Social

The dance and basket social which was given by the local baseball club on Monday evening last in the Shimp Hall was not so well attended as could have been desired but a number of tickets had been sold beforehand, which left the affair in a better financial standing than would otherwise have been the case. The Carmangay orchestra was engaged and those who were there had thoroughly enjoyable time. There was much interest when the time came for the baskets to be offered for auction, Mr. Joe Balsted being the auctioneer. The result of his eloquence was that the sale fetched about $25.

The net receipts of the affair will place about $45 to the credit of the baseball club.

See This Little Advt.?

FOR EXCHANGE—100 acres, 2 1/2 miles from Ensign, and an automobile, for land east of Vulcan.

That was all that was said, nothing more. It appeared in the 'Vulcan Advocate' and was the means of bringing many men into touch. It did what was expected of it and proved a good investment for all persons concerned.

Remember this when you have anything you want to sell or exchange, or when you want to buy anything. One ad. speaks to hundreds far more easily than you yourself can do. It works quietly, persistently, getting after the business when you are doing something else. It is better than a hired man at $5 a day.

THE WINDOW AT THE WHITE CAT

By Mary Roberts Rinehart

The other party came within range of vision. It was Davidson.

"All there were, Mr. Schwartz," he replied. "We were nearly finished before the woman made a bolt." He held out a small object on the palm of his hand.

"I would rather have done it alone, Mr. Schwartz," he said. "I found this ring in Briggs' pocket this morning. It belongs to the girl."

Schwartz swore and, picking up the ring, held it to the light. Then he made an angry motion to throw it out of the window, but it fell into his vest pocket instead.

"You're poor stuff, Davidson," he said, with a snarl. "If she hasn't got them, then Wardrop has. Tell McFeely I want to see him."

Davidson left, for I heard the door close. Schwartz held the ring to the light. I looked at my watch. The time was almost up.

A fresh burst of noise came from below. I leaned out cautiously and looked down at the lower windows; they were still closed and shuttered. When I raised my eyes again to the level of the room across, I was amazed to see a second figure in the room—a woman at that.

Schwartz had not seen her. He stood with his back to her, looking at the ring in his hand. The woman had thrown her veil back, but I could see nothing of her face as she stood. She looked small beside Schwartz's towering height, and she wore black.

She must have said something just then very quietly, for Schwartz suddenly wheeled on her. I had a clear view of him, and if ever guilt, rage and hate were shown on a man's face it showed on his. He replied a half dozen words in a low tone and made a motion to offer her a chair. She said no attention.

I have no idea how long a time they talked. The fresh outburst of noise below made it impossible to hear what they said, and always there was the maddening fact that I could not see her face. I thought of Mrs. Fleming, but this woman seemed younger and more slender. Schwartz was arguing, I imagined, but she stood immobile, scornful, watching him. She seemed to have made a request, and the man's evasions moved her no bit.

It may have been only two or three minutes, but it seemed long. Schwartz had given up the argument, whatever it was, and was pointing out the window. I supposed he was telling her he had thrown what she wanted out there. Even then she did not turn toward me. I could not see even her profile.

What happened next was so unexpected that it remains little more than a picture in my mind. The man threw out his hands as if to show he could not or would not accede to her request. He was flushed with rage, and even at that distance the ugly scar on the forehead stood out like a welt. The next moment I saw the woman raise her right hand with something in it.

I yelled to Schwartz to warn him, but he had already seen the revolver. As he struck her hand aside the explosion came. I saw her stagger, clutch at a chair and fall backward beyond my range of vision.

Then the light went out, and I was staring at a black brick wall.

I fell rather than ran down to the floor below and got to the street. I found the gate to the White Cat without trouble. The inner gate was locked, as Burton had said he would leave it, and from the steps of the club I could hear laughter and the refrain of a popular song.

HAIR CAME OUT BY HANDFULS

With Dandruff and Itching Scalp. Scalp Covered with Small Pimples. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Now No Trouble At All.

593 Jane St., Toronto, Ont.—"I was first troubled with my hair getting brittle and later dandruff and itching scalp. I was afraid to comb my hair as it came out by handfuls and the itching was so severe I was miserable. The trouble kept me from sleeping. My scalp was covered with small pimples which seemed to run into one another and form a scab. The dandruff was so bad I was afraid to comb my hair as it made it show so plainly. It looked very badly. I was thinking of having my head shaved."

"For a long time I tried and several other remedies but they did not cure it. After some months I picked up a paper with the Cuticura Soap and Ointment advertisement and sent right away for a sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment. On using just the sample my trouble was better. I used six or eight boxes of the Cuticura Ointment and the Cuticura Soap and my scalp healed, the itching stopped and my hair came in quite thick and now I have no trouble at all." (Signed) Mrs. H. Blager, May 27, 1913.

It costs nothing to learn how pure, sweet, effective and satisfying Cuticura Soap and Ointment are in the treatment of poor complexion, red, rough hands, itching scalp, dandruff, dry, itchy and falling hair, because you need not buy them until you try them. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. book. Send post-card to Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Dept. D, Boston, U. S. A.

Burton was there in the kitchen, with two other men whom I did not recognize, each one holding a stein of beer. Burton had two, and he held one out to me as I stood trying to get my breath.

"You win," he said. "Although I'm a hard working journalist and need the money, I won't lie. This is Osborne of the Star and McTigue of the Eagle, Mr. Knox. They heard the shot in there, and if I hadn't told the story there would have been a panic. What's the matter with you?"

"For God's sake, Burton," I panted, "let's get upstairs quietly. I didn't fire any shot. There's a woman dead up there!"

With characteristic poise the three reporters took the situation quietly. We fled through the grillroom as cautiously as we could. With the door closed, however, we three cautioners led the way up the stairs to the room where I had found Fleming's body and where I expected to find another.

On the landing at the top of the stairs I came face to face with Davidson, the detective, and behind him Judge McFeely. Davidson was trying to open the door of the room where Fleming had been shot, with a skeleton key. But it was bolted inside. When I had got the door open and had not felt Schwartz's heavy hand at my throat I drew a long breath of relief. Burton found the electric light switch and turned it on. And then—I could hardly believe my senses. The room was empty. But I picked up a small nickel plated revolver from the floor.

Burton, after all, was the quickest witted of the lot. He threw open one of the two doors in the room, revealing a shallow closet with papered walls and a row of hooks. The other door stuck tight. One of the men pointed to the floor. A bit of black cloth had wedged it from the other side. Our combined efforts got it open at last, and we crowded in the doorway, looking down a flight of stairs.

Huddled just below us, her head at our feet, was the body of the missing woman.

"My God," Burton said hoarsely, "what is it?"

We got her into the room and on the couch before I knew her. Her fair hair had fallen loose over her face, and one long, thin hand clutched still at the bosom of her gown. It was Ellen Butler.

"She's got about an hour," I should say, "said one of the newspaper men. 'See if Gray is around, will you, Jim? He's mostly here Saturday night.'"

Whatever surprise Gray may have felt at seeing a woman there, and dying, he made no comment. He said she might live six hours, but the end was certain. We got a hospital ambulance, and with the clang of its bell as it turned the corner and hurried away the White Cat drops out of this story, so far as action is concerned.

Three detectives and as many reporters hunted Schwartz all of that night and the next day to get his story. But he remained in hiding. Even in her agony Ellen Butler's hate had carried her through the doorway after him, to collapse on the stairs. I took a car and rode to the hospital.

A night watchman in felt shoes admitted me and took me upstairs.

The cover was drawn up to the injured woman's chin, where it was folded neatly back. Her face was bloodless, and her fair hair had been gathered up in a shaggy knot. She was breathing slowly, but regularly, and her expression was relaxed—more restful than I had ever seen it. As I stood at the foot of the bed and looked down at her I knew that as surely as death was coming it would be welcome.

Edith and Fred were there. As he sat there beside the bed I knew by his face that he was repeating and repenting every unkind word he had said about Ellen Butler. Once she asked for water without opening her eyes, and Fred slipped a bit of ice between her white lips. Later in the night she looked up for an instant at me.

"He struck my hand," she said, with difficulty.

By morning she was rallying a little from the shock. I got Fred to take Edith home, and I took her place by the bed.

I hoped to get some sort of statement before the injured woman was taken to the operating room, but she lay in a stupor, and I had to give up the idea. It was two days before I got her disposition, and in that time I had learned many things.

On Monday I took Margery to Bellwood. She had received the news about Mrs. Butler more calmly than I had expected.

"I do not think she was quite sane, poor woman," she said, with a shudder. "She had received the news with a great deal of trouble. But how strange—a murder and an attempt at murder—at that little club in a week!"

She did not connect the two, and I let the thing rest at that. Once on the train she asked, "Don't you think that she had a sort of homicidal mania and that she tried to kill me with chloroform?"

"I hardly think so," I returned evasively. "I am inclined to think some one actually got in over the porch roof."

"It is very comforting to have a friend one can rely on," she said, and the little bit of kindness went to my head. If she had not got a cinder in her eye at that psychological moment, I'm afraid I would figuratively have trampled Wardrop underfoot right there."

We found Miss Letitia in the lower hall and Hepple on her knees with a hatchet. Between them sat a packing box.

"Here, give it to me," Miss Letitia demanded as we stood in the doorway. "Like as not it's a mistake"—bang—but the expressage was prepaid. If it's mineral water—crash! Something broke inside.

"There are more important things in life than money?"

"Yes; but you haven't the leisure to notice them, if you haven't got the coin."

PRESIDENT SUSPENDER

Most Perfect Pump

The most perfect pump in the world, the most perfect ever made, is also the oldest—how old no one knows for it is as old as man himself.

This pump is so small and so light that it might be carried in an overcoat pocket. Yet it runs days and night without a stop, without attention; drawing in and sending forth two and a half ounces of liquid 79 times a minute. In one minute it pumps 175 ounces; in one hour, 6564 pounds; in one year, 5,748,750 pounds. Its normal life is about 70 years, in which time it pumps 402,412,000 pounds, or more than 201,206 tons.

To transport this immense weight of liquid that it pumps would require 6,700 freight cars of ordinary capacity. This would mean 223 trains of 30 cars each, and as many engines to haul them. Strung out in one line, with no intervals between each train they would cover a distance of 47 miles.

This diminutive piece of machinery has been known to keep up this work without a single stop for more than 100 years.

It pulsates 4,200 times an hour; 100,800 times a day; 36,792,000 times a year. It has no joints or bearings to oil, no bolts to tighten or slacks to be taken up. It is so constructed that its parts are automatically repaired as it goes along. But, with all of this, there is one very serious characteristic inseparably connected with this pump, which is that once it stops it cannot be started up again, unless immediate steps be taken to do so by an expert. Even this generally fails. So the owner should use care and judgment in its upkeep. There is no other machine that we have any knowledge of which the above can be said. How this is accomplished is known only to its inventor.

This pump is the human heart—New York World.

Methusalem Practiced It

Says Benjamin Franklin in his "little essay" "On the Art of Procuring Pleasant Dreams."

"It is recorded that Methusalem, who being the longest liver, may be supposed to have best preserved his health, that he slept always in the open air, for when he had lived 500 years an angel said to him, 'Arise, Methusalem, and build thee an house, for thou shalt live 900 years longer.' But Methusalem answered and said: 'If I am to live but 500 years longer, it is not worth while to build me an house. I will sleep in the air, as I have been used to do.'"

This discourse is not reported in the fifth chapter of Genesis, to be sure, but it is reproduced here out of respect to Franklin as evidence that outdoor sleeping is no fad, but a wise return to the manners of our ancestors.—Harper's Weekly.

The fervent temperance orator stepped in the midst of his speech and said impressively:

"My friends, if all the pubs were at the bottom of the sea, what would be the inevitable result?"

And from the back of the room came the loud and emphatic reply: "Lots of people would get drowned."

No Chance

He—They say, dear, that people who live together get in time to look exactly alike.

She—Then you may consider my refusal final.

Mr. Needmore—Don't refuse me absolutely. Can't you hold out some hope?

Miss Sweetly—Oh, yes. I can hold it just out of your reach.

CLEVER WIFE

Knew How to Keep Peace in Family

It is quite significant, the number of persons who get well of alarming heart trouble when they let up on tea and coffee and use Postum.

There is nothing surprising about it, however, because the harmful alkaloid—caffeine in both tea and coffee is not present in Postum, which is made of clean, hard wheat.

"Two years ago I was having so much trouble with my heart," writes a lady in the west, "that at times I felt alarmed. My husband took me to a specialist to have my heart examined."

"The doctor said he could find no organic trouble but said my heart was irritated from something I had been accustomed to, and asked me to try and remember what disagreed with me."

"I remembered that coffee always caused me trouble from palpitation of the heart. So I stopped coffee and began to use Postum. I have had no further trouble since."

"A neighbor of ours, an old man, was so irritable from drinking coffee that his wife wanted him to drink Postum. This made him very angry, but his wife secured some Postum and made it carefully according to directions."

"He drank the Postum and did not know the difference, and is still using it to his lasting benefit. He tells his wife that the 'coffee' is better than it used to be, so she smiles with him and keeps peace in the family by serving Postum instead of coffee."

Name given by Canadian Postum Co., Windsor, Ont.

Postum now comes in two forms: Regular Postum—must be well boiled, 15c and 25c packages.

Instant Postum—is a soluble powder. A teaspoonful dissolves quickly in a cup of hot water and, with cream and sugar, makes a delicious beverage instantly. 30c and 50c tins.

The cost per cup of both kinds is about the same.

"There's a Reason" for Postum.—Sold by Grocers.

Sensitiveness—Those who are not sensitive by nature never become sensitive through experience. And sensitiveness is such a doubtful blessing that few born without it would take any great pains to acquire the quality. The most common conception of a sensitive person is of one whose feelings are easily hurt. In wounded feelings, unquestionably, sensitiveness gives its earliest manifestations: sensitive children are at times the unhappiest.

But at other times they are the happiest. Although they have griefs and longings that their more "stodgy" playmates never know, they also enjoy in a higher degree the pleasant emotions of life; they have a keener appreciation of affection and of kindness, their spirits respond more quickly and eagerly to the stimulating influences of friendship and books and nature.

What they have, especially to do as they grow older, if they are to make their sensitiveness an advantage to them rather than a handicap, is to learn self-control. When their feelings are hurt; they must bear the wounds stoically. They must learn not to let their ego obscure the cosmos. They must harden themselves against the rough knocks of life without becoming less accessible to its soft appeals.

Indeed, the paradox of sensitiveness is that the more successful a person is in conquering the vulnerability of his own feelings, the more tender he grows of the feelings of others. When his sensitiveness becomes the objective, it begins to flourish as an aid and enrichment to life. Then what is sweet and sound in nature and in art makes a deeper impression, gives a greater pleasure, furnishes a livelier stimulus.

The boy who thinks he is morbidly sensitive must not despair; the chances are that he will become a man of quick human interests and keen and sympathetic understanding.—Youth's Companion.

Two Scotchmen had been having a good time on the heather. One of a little island and were rowing back home across the Firth, says Dean Mortimer Cooley of the University of Michigan, when the boat capsized. Dean Cooley told the story to the Engineers' club a few days ago.

Angus had clung to the boat and Jock, who had clung to the bottle, was floundering bravely in the deep. Although a poor swimmer, he struck out for the pier, holding the bottle in one hand. After a few strokes he became exhausted.

"Angus," he cried, "I dinna think I can mak' it."

"Well, if ye canna mak' it, Jock, throw it," called back Angus.

Little Tommy and the President

The Washington correspondent of a New York paper recently took his small son, six years old, to the newspaper men's semi-weekly conference with the president. At the conclusion of the conference he took Tommy to the president and introduced him.

The president patted Tommy kindly on the head and said:

"How are you, my little man? I have often heard your father speak of you."

Tommy was embarrassed, but not to be outdone in courtesy.

"Yes, sir," he stammered, "I think I've heard him speak of you, too."

Surely Not

Settlement worker—I don't see how you can afford to wear ostrich feathers.

Mag—I get eight dollars a week. Settlement worker—Well, you shouldn't plume yourself on that.

Two eminently respectable women from out of town who were visiting here recently decided to go to a matinee at a local theatre. The only seats they could get on the floor were two aisle seats one behind the other. They took them. Noticing a man beside her who seemed to be alone one of the women turned to him just after the curtain rose and whispered "Are you alone?" No response. The man gazed steadily ahead. Thinking that he had not heard her, the woman turned to him a minute later and again whispered: "Are you alone?" Still no response. A third time she turned and whispered, "Are you alone?" The man nudged her with his elbow and replied in whispers, "Be careful, my wife is with me."

There is no good reason why the church should not profit by newspaper advertising. If it has anything of special appeal to the non-churchgoers of the community, the columns of the press offer the best place for the announcement of the fact.—Ottawa Citizen.

"Fit" at Forty

Experience has shown that mental activity in man has reached its greatest heights between the ages of forty and fifty. Some of the world's greatest masterpieces in literature, music, and art have been achieved by men bordering on the half century.

Physically, however, according to Sir Ernest Shackleton, "under thirty a man, no matter how keen and nippy, is still a man in the making. By thirty he has matured. Between thirty and forty he is at his best."

Sir Ernest himself is thirty-nine years of age, but with his mode of life he will probably remain physically, thirty-nine for many years to come.—Exchange.

He Blessed It

A teacher of a Sunday school class tried to impress upon her young charges the necessity of blessing the food before eating.

"Billy," she asked of a little fellow whose father was an elder in the church, "what prayer does your father say before you eat?"

"Well, what did he say this morning before breakfast?"

Billy meditated; suddenly he remembered and beamed.

"He said, 'You kids go slow on the butter now. It's forty cents a pound!'"—Fun.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional Cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a tablespoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Boy with a Future

One predicts a future for the school boy who wrote the following terse narrative about Elijah:

"There was a man named Elijah. He had some bears and he lived in a cave. Some boys tormented him. He said: 'If you keep on throwing stones at me, I'll turn the bears on you and they'll eat you up.' And they did and he did and the bears did."

Sunday in Scotland

In illustrations of the "dreary Glasgow Sunday," a lecturer told this story of the late J. L. Toole. He was leaving his hotel in Glasgow one fine Sunday morning, when the sun was shining brightly. As he was strolling along George Avenue a policeman eyed him suspiciously, and at last approached him and said:

"Ye had better tak' care what ye're doing."

"What am I doing?" inquired Toole, and added with a merry wink:

"Why, I'm not even whistling."

"No," replied the Glaswegian in solemn and reproving tones; "but ye're lookin' almost as happy as if it were Monday."

He was one of the smart men who like to show their cleverness.

"See me make him look small," he said, as the beggar approached. Then he listened solemnly to the tale of hard luck.

"That's the same old story you told me last week," he said, when the vagrant had finished.

"Is it?" was the reply. "Perhaps I did, perhaps I did, but I'd quite forgotten, meeting you for the moment. I was doing several days last week and there was such a lot of us, you see."

On his eighty-fourth birthday Paul Smith, the veteran Adirondack hotel keeper, who started life as a guide and died owning a million dollars' worth of forest land, was talking about boundary disputes with an old friend.

"Didn't you hear of the lawsuit over a title that I had with Jones down in Malone last summer?" asked Paul.

The friend had not heard. "Well," said Paul, "it was this way: I sat in the court room before this case opened with my witnesses around me. Jones bustled in, stopped, looked my witnesses over carefully, and said: 'Pul are those your witnesses?' 'They are,' said I. 'Then you win,' said he. 'I've had them witness twice myself.'"

And Her Kidney Disease and Female Weakness Disappeared—She is Now a Strong, Healthy Woman.

Mizonette, Gloucester Co., N.B. (Special)—"I have been suffering from the kidneys ever since I was a child," says Miss J. M. Godin of this place. "When I grew to womanhood I was told I was suffering from female weakness, so I tried several kinds of medicine, spending a good many dollars for nothing. 'Last winter I became so weak I was on the point of giving up my work. I could not sleep at night and could hardly get up the stairs without having palpitation of the heart and feeling quite exhausted. 'Reading of symptoms of Kidney Disease in Dodd's Almanac, I soon found out my case was similar, so I sent at once for four boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills. I began to feel a change at the very beginning, for I slept well the very first night. These four boxes did me more good than all the medicine I had taken before, and I have remained strong ever since. I am now as well as can be.'"

The proprietor of the leading drug store in a small Kentucky town was coming out of the front door of his place not long ago, when a small boy came tearing round the corner at top gallop with his head down and butted squarely into him.

"Hey, kid," demanded the druggist, "what's the matter?"

"I am trying to keep two boys from getting into a fight," panted the youngster.

"Who are the boys," asked the druggist.

"I'm one of 'em," was the reply.

When Jasper got back to his office his boss said:

"Look here, does it take you a half hour to go down to the corner and do an errand for me?"

"It did this time, sir," answered Jasper. "A man dropped a quarter down a hole in the sidewalk."

"And it took you all this time to get it out?"

"Yes, sir, you see, I had to wait till the man went away."

Painful Swelling Reduced Muscular Strains Ended

Such Troubles Now Quickly Rubbed Away by Powerful Remedy

If you have any muscles that are strained and weak, that are frequently subject to rheumatic pains; if you have any painful swellings that refuse to go away—get busy with Nerviline. This is the very sort of trouble that Nerviline is noted for curing quickly. "I have proved Nerviline simply a wonder in reducing a hard, painful swelling. It followed an injury I received in my left leg and caused me great pain and discomfort. The muscles were strained and sore, and no other remedy gave the ease and comfort I got from rubbing on Nerviline. There is a soothing, pain-relieving power about Nerviline that touched the root of my trouble. Nerviline reduced the swelling, it destroyed the pain, it brought my limb back to perfect condition." The experience of Mr. Bowen, whose home is in Middlesex, is not unusual. Thousands are proving every day that muscular pains of every kind, chronic rheumatism, lumbago, neuralgia and sciatica will yield to Nerviline when loth to be cured. Nerviline is an old-time family pain remedy, used nearly forty years, with great success. The large family size bottle costs 50c, trial size 25c. at all dealers.

As Ordered

The menu of a certain London restaurant is a thing of wonder to strangers. It contains several pages of various dishes, all classified, mostly with weird French names.

The country visitor eyed up and down, but could make nothing of it. And the waiter stood silently by his side. At last, in despair, the diner stabbed his finger in the middle of one page and said:

"Bring me some of that."

"Oul, m'sieu!" replied the waiter, "That ees mayonnaise dressing, sar."

"I know that, my man," snorted the countryman. "I can read!"

"But, m'sieu," said the waiter apologetically, "what will you have it on?"

The diner glared. "On a plate of course, you idiot!" he roared. "Do you feed your guests in troughs at this restaurant?"—Top-Notch.

Only Just Beginning Vice-President Bury of the Canadian Pacific, says that from harvest to the close of navigation last season the C.P.R. carried more grain than any other railway in any other part of the world has ever carried in the time, and that, although last season the Canadian West produced 510,000,000 bushels of all kinds, the land has "hardly been scratched." These are the kind of things people are apt to forget when they imagine that there can be any lengthy depression in Canada. Neither our land nor our resources are worn out. We are only just beginning to tap them.—Montreal Herald and Telegraph.

The superintendent of a Sunday school was illustrating for the children the text, "Arise and take the young child and his mother, and flee into Egypt." Showing them a large picture, she asked:

"Now, isn't that splendid? Here is the mother. Here is the young child. There's Egypt in the distance."

The children, however, looked disappointed. And finally a little boy piped out:

AUSTRIA HALTS EMIGRATION

No Able-Bodied Man May Leave the Country Before He Is 35

The large volume of emigration to the United States has caused a considerable falling off in the number of Austrians liable for military service, amounting to an estimated total of 70,000.

In order to reduce this exodus the Austrian government has just established a bureau attached to the Vienna police office with power to control general movements of emigrants and to give an account of themselves.

Travelers will have to provide themselves with passports, a practice which in inland travel has been obsolete since 1857. A most important rule concerns the prohibition of emigration for men between the ages of 17 and 35. While hitherto men were free to emigrate after having served their three years in the first line of the army, now they will have to stay in the country thirteen years more, until they have served in the reserve, the Landwehr and the Landstrum, which is likely materially to reduce the number of able-bodied emigrants to America.

A special agent of the bureau will be stationed on the frontiers with power to intercept would-be emigrants.

The birds are more efficient in keeping down insect pests than are all other agencies, natural and artificial, combined. If not persecuted, they will attach themselves to the farm, garden and orchard, where their services are of the greatest value. Save the birds.

"What do you mean by telling people that I haven't any brains behind my back?" demanded Blathers angrily, as he met Bimpson on the street.

"I never said you hadn't any brains behind your back," retorted Bimpson. "What I said was that you hadn't any brains in the front of your face."

Peeling Onions For a Living The profession of onion peeling is not one that obtains much notice, yet there are at least 500 women living in the east end of London earning their living by removing the skins of onions. With practice, they can make 4s or 5s per day. Very often they have been peeling since childhood, daughters succeeding mothers.

It is not a profession you can learn in one lesson, for the skin must be removed by hand, or the onion "jukes" and is no use for pickling. The onions are always peeled in water. This is not done to save the eyes of the peeler, but is done to keep the onion white.

"My dear man," said young Saphead to the battered specimen of humanity who had just pulled him from the path of an onrushing auto. "You saved my life! What can I do to cancel the obligation?"

"Just slip me a dime, boss," replied the battered one, "and we'll call it square."

An "Interest" Instrument A Hungarian citizen invented an instrument which shows instantly the amount of interest due on any given sum for any period at any rate of interest. The instrument, made in the size and shape of a watch, is of very simple construction, and inexpensive. All that is necessary to operate it is to place the hands in the proper position on the dial and the exact amount of interest in each case is indicated on the face of the instrument.

"Have you any objection to my marrying your daughter?"

"No," replied Mr. Cumrox. "To be candid, I've taken quite a liking to you."

"Then I may count on you as a friend?"

"I shouldn't do anything like that if I were you. If you introduce yourself as a friend of mine, mother and the girls will take it for granted that you haven't any social standing whatever."

Young Tony of the Italian quarter, had been greatly interested by the teacher's story of the fox and the grapes. Arriving home from school, he repeated it in his excited, broken English to the family, following the teacher's version pretty closely until he reached the climax. Tony's conclusion was this: "De old fox he say: 'Da grapa no good, anyhow, alla sour, guess I go gets da banan'."

THE TOWN PASTURE

AT the recent council meeting Councillor Terry introduced the question of a pasture for the town, all owners of cattle being allowed to use it for their animals instead of letting them roam about the streets and vacant lots, to say nothing of them taking an excursion to some distant spot over the prairie and having to be hunted up.

The idea, fully set forth in the council meeting report is a good one, if it can be arranged. Application has to be made to the C. P. R. to allow fencing of a portion of their land over the railway. The application will be made by the council on behalf of the cattle owners, who will then have to see to the fencing off of the pasture. With the pasture handy, all the owner will have to do will be to drive his animals to and from the pasture as required. He will always know where they are and will not be under the necessity of making an almost nightly hunt for them. Of course he will have to defray his part of the expense incidental to the arrangement, but no doubt he will be glad to do that, for it would hardly be fair to tax non-owners for the convenience.

We hope to see the idea carried out in the near future.

THE POUND LAW

IN another column will be found the publication of the town by-law respecting the restrictions placed upon animals in the town, the hours they are allowed to be at large, and what animals are allowed to be at large. The council intend that this by-law shall be fully enforced, which is only right, for what is the use of a law if it is to be ignored? Yet such has often been the case in the past. But now things are to be managed differently, and the publishing of the by-law is a way of giving everybody a fair warning. The amount of damage that can be done by an animal roaming about at certain times means some thing to the town, besides being a menace to the safety of the public.

Last year a number of private complaints were made in regard to animals hanging round the houses during the night to the discomfort of the occupants, but little could be done. However, this year it is to be different.

SIR WILLIAM WHYTE

SIR WILLIAM WHYTE, who died in Los Angeles, at the age of 71, has been connected with Canadian railway enterprises ever since he came to this country at the age of twenty, in the year 1863. He was born in Scotland in the year 1843. Entering into the service of the Grand Trunk railway as a brakeman, he worked his way through various positions until he joined the Canadian Pacific railway as general superintendent of the Ontario division in 1884. He became vice-president of this company in 1910, and on his retirement into private life he was succeeded by George Bury.

Sir William Whyte was also vice-president of the Winnipeg Electric railway. He was one of the most widely known and respected of the citizens of Winnipeg, and interested in many local financial and charitable enterprises of that city.

He went to the Pacific coast early in the winter on account of his health, and notwithstanding having been confined to his house for several weeks, reports regarding his health were encouraging during the last few days of his life. It was his intention to have come home soon, but death intervened and robbed Canada of another of her greatest men.

TWO METHODS

IT is reported that Mr. H. W. Thornton, the American manager of the English Great Western railway company, whose engagement with that company caused much comment a little while back, is greatly impressed with the size of the London traffic. Interviewed on his impressions of the Easter week end traffic, he said that there was nothing like it in the States, the nearest approach being on the Long Island over the Decoration Day, the Fourth of July and Labor

Day. He said that the amount of traffic was just three times as great, and that the rule of multiplying by three held good in every respect as regarded the London railways.

For his own sake one cannot help hoping that Mr. Thornton finds things amenable to the American method, where we are led to understand, everything is up to to-morrow, so to speak. But the gentleman is not the only one who has suffered a shock on being brought into contact with old country methods and business. The difference between the American and English systems are strikingly opposed in many cases, and people are generally prone to imagine that the newest is often the best, and in that comparison England is often underrated. The refreshing part about Mr. Thornton is that he is willing to make admissions.

Inspector's Report

The following is the official report of the school inspector, John W. Russell, who officially visited the Ferrodale school, Vulcan, on Friday, April the 3rd:

"The Trustees, Ferrodale School District, No. 1902

Gentlemen:—I have the honour to submit for your consideration the report of my visit to the Ferrodale school district, No. 1902, on April 3rd.

I was much pleased with your excellent school ground, and to note that you had a substantial portion of it under cultivation. You are certainly to be congratulated on the attempt you are making to beautify your grounds in the planting of trees and in school gardening. I notice with interest the football, basket ball and croquet courts, and observe with great satisfaction the zest with which your pupils entered into their school games.

Your school buildings are in good condition. You are, I am sure, aware of the fact that you are almost face to face with the matter of providing school accommodation. In your primary room you have forty six pupils enrolled. The regulations of the department of education require that at least fifteen feet of floor space and two hundred cubic feet of air space be provided for each pupil in average attendance. These requirements cannot be met in your primary room. The principal's room is better in this respect. There is, however, quite enough work to be done here without additional pupils.

Your teachers have tastefully and effectively decorated their rooms by placing a border of pictures neatly arranged on an appropriate background above the wainscoting of the rooms. This has a very pleasing effect. I would be glad if the board could supplement their efforts by securing a few good pictures appropriately framed and placing them on the wall. We cannot over estimate the value of a few good pictures as educational factors.

I would like you to get a clock for Miss Loftus' room. It is considerable inconvenience for her to refer to the clock in the principal's room. She needs additional black-board space also. This you can arrange by putting additional pieces on the side walls. I would suggest that you place some shelves in your cloak rooms so that the children may place their lunch pails there. It is highly advisable that you arrange to have your school rooms scrubbed regularly—once in six weeks is necessary. It would be of advantage to your teachers and pupils to have weights and a balance added to your equipment. I understand you have placed an order for books for your library; I hope you will see to it that your library grant is promptly placed. I therefore recommend that your attention be given with despatch to the matters of improvement I have above referred to.

With respect to your teachers and the work to be done I wish to say that I am well pleased. Your teachers are devoted to their work; they are giving your children an excellent service in discipline, in courtesy and in everyday citizenship. I would say a child was fortunate to get such a training as these children are getting. The singing and physical exercises of your pupils are well done. Your teachers are experts in these lines. I found a splendid spirit existing between teachers and pupils. The attention and interest displayed by them in their work was very satisfactory. I have pleasure in stating that I passed a very enjoyable day in your school.

Your obedient servant,

JOHN W. RUSSELL,

To A. J. FLOOD, Esq.,

Land Selling

That the present season holds out better expectations of land sales is the opinion of all who know. The Vulcan district is to the front as it never has been before. It is receiving advertisement from all hands. The construction of the numerous railways through Southern Alberta has brought the neighborhood before all buyers who are desirous of purchasing land which is not only good value today, but land which is bound to increase in value as the seasons go by and the district gets more to the front.

The C.P.R. ready-made farms, advertised as they are over the length and breadth of the United States and Great Britain, have caused the eyes of the investing public of the great monied countries to be turned to Southern Alberta. They have knowledge of the C.P.R. as a great corporation who do business advisedly, and naturally infer that if such a corporation puts its money in the laying out of farms in a certain part those farms are the best. The adjacent land must be similar. Therefore Southern Alberta, where the best C.P.R. farms are, has become the center of attraction for buyers.

One real estate firm alone in Vulcan, Messrs. A. Mitchell & Co., have during the past two weeks, sold a section and three-quarters of farm land, and they have several deals on hand which they expect to close within the next few days. Last year this firm sold on an average slightly over a quarter section of land per week, and they are of the opinion that this season will show even better results.

Selected Vulcan District

A new settler in the Vulcan district is Mr. A. K. Henning, who has brought his wife and family to settle on a C. P. R. farm about five miles south of the town. His remarks about this district are decidedly encouraging.

Arriving in Calgary some eight or ten days ago with a view to taking up land in Alberta, he got into touch with the C. P. R. company, who showed him what they had in farms in north, central, and south Alberta. His tour of inspection up north led him to wish to see the south. He came to Vulcan and then he saw what he considers to be the best part of the province. Accordingly he has decided to make his home here. A wise choice.

Mr. Henning, by birth a Californian, hailing from Santa Clara, has had a varied experience, having engaged in callings so far opposed as office work and seal hunting. The first part of his life was spent on the ranch in California, but he left that to follow the call of the sea and the seal in the Behring Sea and along the Japanese coast. He followed this call for four years, when the lowering of the price of skins, combined with Japanese competition led him to look for another field of activity.

He had a desire to see China, and so went to Shanghai, where he entered the police force and became a member of the volunteer force during the Boxer rising and the rebellion. Shortly after he left the police for the American municipal government employ in that city and entered their offices in the tax department. But office life palled and he wanted the free and open air, so he came to the one and only town in Alberta where he is sure to make good.

We understand that the C.P.R. company have decided to do no more grading this year. The grading already done will have the steel laid on it. On the line east of Vulcan, which affects the Armada district, the steel is already laid from Suffield to Retlaw, and from there the road is graded through Enchant and Travers to Lomond, a distance of about 30 miles. So the steel will be laid from Retlaw to Lomond this year, and it looks as if no further progress will be made with the line before the year 1915.

Ferrodale Trustees Meet

The trustees of the Ferrodale school met on Thursday evening last in the offices of A. J. Flood, the secretary. Mr. W. A. Howes, the principal of the school, who had that day returned from the teachers' Convention at Lethbridge, was present.

The report of the inspector, J. W. Russel, who visited the school on April 3rd was read. The general tone of the report, which appears in another column was of a highly gratifying nature to all concerned, and the trustees are no less pleased with the report than Mr. W. A. Howes.

On a motion made by Mr. Lindsay and seconded by Mr. Robson, the chairman and secretary were empowered to make the necessary arrangements with the Bank of Hamilton for a supply of funds until such time as the requisition was available.

The bills read and ordered paid were: Peter Terry, for work done on the barn at the school, $66; Wolfe and Pettman, $7.25.

On a motion by Mr. Lindsay, seconded by Mr. Robson it was decided that the balance of the money which was due on the school furnace be paid to the contractor, Mr. H. F. Richardson, and that the said sum be offered in legal tender. The amount owing is $110.

Referring back to the report the trustees decided that they would act on the suggestions made therein by the inspector, and provide the clock for Miss Loftus room.

The meeting then adjourned.

Must Have Licence

All residents of the province residing to the south of the 55th parallel who are not farmers residing on their farms or members of such farmer's family residing with him on the farm require a licence before hunting or shooting any game bird. This includes wild geese. Although the open season for ducks and swans is now a little later in the year, being the 1st of September, where formerly it was the 23rd of August, and extending until the 31st of December, the shooting of wild geese is permitted at any season of the year, except Sundays and between one hour after sunset and one hour before sunrise. The flesh of this bird must not be trafficked in without first obtaining the licence provided for by section 16 of the act. The resident's bird game licence, which in previous years cost the sportsmen $1.25 is now $2.25.

As a great many of the residents of the province are interesting themselves in fox farming, there is now a close season on foxes extending from April 1st to November 1st in each year. During this time no person may hunt, trap, take, shoot at, wound or kill any foxes without first obtaining a special permit to do so. Section 17 of the act gives particulars with respect to such permits. It is also illegal for any person to export beyond the boundaries of the Province of Alberta any live foxes without first obtaining a permit, which in the case of animals reared on fur farms will cost $15.00. In the case of animals not reared on fur farms the fee is $100.00 for each and every black or silver fox to be exported, and $15.00 for each and every animal of any other species of the fox family. Copies of the regulations relating to foxes may be had on application. You will also find by referring to the provisions of section 7 a of the act that any person trespassing on a fox farm contrary to any warning notice is liable to a penalty of not less than $50.00, and not more than $200.00 with costs in each case.

Mr. P. W. L. Clark, barrister, is taking additional space over the Bank of Hamilton chambers. Alterations are at present being carried out for the accommodation of his business.

Ships Ordered To Tampico

All the ships of the United States Atlantic fleet, at Hampton Roads, have been ordered to Tampico. The transport Hancock, with 800 marines, has been ordered from New Orleans to Tampico at once.

The concentration of the fleet was ordered by Secretary Daniels after a meeting in which President Wilson laid before the cabinet the necessity for backing up the demand of Rear Admiral Mayo that the American flag be upheld by the Huerta commander as an apology for the arrest of American marines last week.

The order was issued to Admiral Budge, who was at Hampton Roads. Orders also were issued to the battleship South Carolina, now en route from San Domingo to Hampton Roads, to go direct to Tampico, and the gunboat Nashville, at San Domingo, was also ordered to go to Tampico. The gunboat Tacoma, now at Boston, will proceed to a Mexican port. The entire torpedo fleet, at Pensacola, was notified to prepare immediately to sail to Tampico.

Krafchenko, convicted murderer, is a clever fellow, as his record shows. But, like a good many other clever rogues, his very cleverness proved his undoing. Seeding is general among the farmers of the district and the work is being carried on under the most favorable conditions that have existed for years. The average in all grains will be increased. The ground is in good shape and there is no fear for a lack of moisture to germinate the crop. Crops are being diversified, an indication of progress along mixed farming lines.

No division of the rewards that were offered for the arrest and conviction of John Krafchenko will be made, and the city and the provincial government will thus not be called upon to pay over the $5,000 each that would have been paid had others than the police effected the capture. Furthermore the police commission will not deal with the accusations against Chief MacPherson or any other person, that were made by the prisoner.

The manager of one of the industries in Redcliff, who has been investigating business conditions throughout the West during the past month, estimates that the amount of building this year will exceed that of 1913, but will be late in starting. Preparations are being made in Calgary for the reception of about six thousand delegates who are expected to be present at the convention of the Brotherhood of Locomotive engineers and firemen, which is to be held early in August. Accommodation for seventeen hundred of the delegates has already been reserved at the new C. P. R. Pallises hotel.

A fire broke out on Tuesday morning last about 1 a.m., at the hardware store of Mr. C. Steen, of Cayley, doing considerable damage to the interior of the building and stock. The fire brigade was quickly on the scene, and with their new chemical engine, which worked splendidly, did some good work and saved the building. The cause of the fire is unknown, but the loss is well covered by insurance. The building is owned by Mr. Warner, of Edmonton. Mr. Steen had only been in business a year.

At the beginning of the week we had the pleasure of a visit from two gentlemen, Mr. James P. Rodgers and Mr. James Spears of Bellflower, Missouri. Incidentally they looked in to pay their subscriptions to the Advocate, a tribute to the local organ illustrative of the saying that a prophet is not without honor save in his own country. These two gentlemen, who are land owners in this vicinity, are up here for about two weeks and are having their land broken. Questioned as to their opinion of the Vulcan district, they had nothing but good to say. There is a vast improvement all round since they were up here last year, and they have every confidence in their purchase. Their opinion is to the effect that the land in the district is in better condition this spring; there is more of it ready for seed, and they are very optimistic for the future.

Loma News*HURT WHILE DRILLING

An accident of a very serious nature happened to Mr. L. O. McFarland Monday last, when he was run over by a drill.

Mr. McFarland was working the drill at the time, having six horses attached. The animal's back came excited at something with the result that the harness on the inside of the pole teams became detached. Mr. McFarland stopped the horses and got down between them to fix the harness, and while he was doing it the horses got restless, with the result that the leaders started and he lost control. He was knocked down and the drill passed over him inflicting serious injuries, being badly cut about the scalp, which required several stitches, three stitches over the right eye and three stitches on the right cheek. Dr. Carson, of Vulcan, attended him.

The farmers in the Loma district are delighted with the prospects of the coming season. Seeding, which is further ahead than it was last year, is progressing all over the district. There is also a larger acreage to go under crop than any previous season.

The Loma Y. P. S. C. held a very successful social on Friday evening last. There was a debate, the subject of which was: "Resolved, that the present day is a better age in which to live than fifty years ago." After a close debate the affirmative won. Following this there were songs and recitations and an old time spelling match. Refreshments consisting of ice cream and cakes were then served. There was a good attendance and everybody had a thoroughly good time.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert White have returned from Arkansas and are now on their farm at Loma.

Mr. Miller White has removed from his home farm to the home stead in Vulcan.

The farmers of the Loma district had an important meeting on Monday evening last to consider the question of rural delivery. They decided to circulate a petition in the district, the object of which is to ask the department to establish the rural delivery. If this arrangement is carried out the Loma district will come under the Vulcan post office.

Council Meeting

The Vulcan council met on Monday evening last in the offices of the secretary treasurer. Those present at the commencement of the meeting were: E. M. Clark, Reeve; and T. B. Lebow, Mr. Terry not arriving until late.

The minutes of the previous meeting of March 9th were read and approved. The bills read P. W. L. Clark, $23.03; Vulcan Advocate, $12.10; Messrs E. T. Board, $22.50; Express, 55c; Telegram rebonds, 90c. Moved by Clark seconded by Lebow that these be allowed. Carried.

After using from the sand and gravel which had been purchased for the foundation of the fire hall there was some left, and this the council decided to sell.

The matter of the health ordinance came up next, the sanitation of out houses being brought forward. The council considered that the health officer should exercise his own discretion in this matter, the opinion of those present being that the proposed bye-law would be too drastic.

Under the heading of new business it was decided to let the secretary-treasurer dispose of the sand and gravel to the best advantage.

It was decided to get on with the painting of the new hall as soon as possible. The insurance of the new building also came up for discussion.

In regard to the matter of the salary of Kaiser, the town workman, the reeve said that formerly the matter had been left with the secretary-treasurer, but that arrangement had better be altered, and a motion for payment be made by the council at each monthly meeting. Lebow moved and Clark seconded that the salary of Kaiser, due for the past month be paid. Carried.

In answer to Clark, the secretary-treasurer said that the bonds were practically accepted.

The question was asked as the subject of buying lumber for sidewalks had been raised, it being thought advisable to wait for the money coming to hand. Mention was made of an offer from the Vulcan Co-operative Society, which was that the company would sell lumber at $15.50 per 1000, and in a discussion as to whether tenders should be called for, Clark was of the opinion that an offer like that ought to be taken advantage of, which was also the opinion of Lebow, provided that the goods were No. 1 quality. To this Clark replied that the stuff was said to be number one, and that the company would at that figure, supply half or a third of a car whereas the general custom was for a carload to be taken. It was decided to leave the matter over until the next meeting as the offer would be open then.

The topic of the town hall was next discussed, it being decided to open it up. The cost was considered, also a trough. Left over.

The secretary treasurer was instructed to tell the contractor of the fire hall to put the bell tower up before placing the roofing on the building.

Clark then made a motion to the effect that the health officer be asked to instruct the Imperial Hotel to clean out the sewers between the hours of ten p.m. and six a.m., seconded by Lebow. Carried.

Instructions were then given for Kaiser re the cleaning of the town. In answer to a question as to whether garden ploughing came under the head of the town definition of draying, Clark said no, neither did excavating.

The leveling up of the streets next came up for discussion, and it was decided to go on with this as soon as possible. There were, said Clark, quite a number of bad places in the streets, Neptune St. for instance, that required filling up. The street was particularly bad, for as it was at present, the rain drained from the sides to the centre instead of from the centre to the sides.

Under the consideration of the bye-laws, it was moved by Lebow and seconded by Clark that bye-law No. 12 regarding the pound law be published in the Vulcan Advocate twice before the date of enforcement, May 15th. Seconded by Lebow. Carried.

At this juncture Terry arrived. The question of a town pasture was brought up by Terry who said that he had it from Mr. A. Mitchell that the C. P. R. would allow the fencing off of a piece of land at the other side of the railway for this purpose, providing it was for the use of the town, but they would not allow it for a private individual. Terry asked the council whether they would be willing that the council procure this permission through Mr. Mitchell, to which Clark replied in the affirmative, provided that the owners of the animal's would defray the cost. Mr. Terry then made a motion to the effect that the secretary-treasurer see Mr. Mitchell in regard to getting the consent of the C. P. R. to allow the fencing off of a portion of land over the railway for a town pasture. Seconded by Lebow. Carried.

Mr. Terry re-opened the discussion in regard to the sanitation of the out houses, he being in favor of the bye-law, which is his, to the effect that the pit idea should be abolished and cans substituted. Clark was of the opinion which he expressed earlier in the meeting, that the bye-law was too drastic. Much discussion took place along this subject, and a copy of a bye-law was read which gives the householder the option, but insists on hotels, schools and other public places, being forced to conform with the regulation regarding cans. Nothing definite came of the discussion, however, and the matter was unsettled when on a motion by Clark, seconded by Lebow, the council adjourned until the next regular meeting night.

China's Peerless Iron Mine

China's famous iron mine, the Tayeh, the foremost in the far east, is especially notable for the ease with which it is worked. It stands peerless in the world in this respect, excavation requiring no machine power. The work is done by hand by the Chinese coolies. The mine is reputed to be inexhaustible in its ore. In the days of the "three kingdoms" the locality formed a theatre of bloody fighting, and the vicinity abounds in relics of that memorable period in Chinese history.
It is about 3,630 Chinese miles from Peking overland and about 4,980 Chinese miles by water. Tayehhsien is traversed by ranges of hills and mountains, the valleys of which abound in innumerable lakes of all sizes, with water course facilities.
Consequently the locality is rich in scenery of great beauty, and the Chinese poets of olden times have never tired of singing of the "eight views" of Tayeh. In the neighborhood of the Tayeh iron mine are found the ruins of ancient iron foundries, probably 1,000 years old. Millions of tons of slag lie in heaps.

NEW STRENGTH
IN THE SPRING

Nature Needs Aid in Making New Health
Giving Blood

In the spring the system needs a tonic. To be healthy you must have new blood just as the trees must have new sap to renew their vitality.
Nature demands it, and without this new blood you will feel weak and languid. You may have twinges of rheumatism or the sharp, stabbing pains of neuralgia. Often there are disfiguring pimples or eruptions on the skin. In other cases there is merely a feeling of tiredness and a variable appetite. Any of these are signs that the blood is out of order —that the indoor life of winter has lessened your vitality. What you need in spring is a tonic medicine to put you right, and in all the world of medicine there is no tonic can e and Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These Pills actually make new, rich, red blood—your greatest need in spring.
This new blood drives out the seeds of disease and rakes easily tired men, women and children bright, active and strong. Mrs. Geo. Burns, Albany, N.Y., writes: "I was terribly run down and so weak that I could hardly drag myself around. I was so nervous that I was afraid to walk across the floor for fear I would fall. Our family doctor treated me but without success and finally I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.
Gradually they brought me back to good health. Now I am as well as ever I was and have every confidence in recommending these Pills to other sufferers."

These Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or can be had by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Lore of the Sea

Some remarkable advice to scaf-fers is given in an old Portuguese book, published for the guidance of mariners. Amongst other things it deals with the rights of captains to assault sailors, and the methods in which the attacks are to be legally met.

The sailor is advised to bear calmly any verbal abuse that an irate skipper may hurl at him, but if words passed to blows he was to run away into the bows and firmly take his stand beside the anchor chain.

Should an infuriated master, armed with a belaying pin or other legal weapon, chase him to his stronghold, the mariner was to slip around to the further side of the chain. Should he still be pursued, he was to call his messmates to witness that the master had broken the rules by circum-venting the chain.

Then, at last, he was to defend himself—and let us hope he would do it well. Other little matters of discipline are set out, and they show a noble effort to make the punishment fit the crime.

The ship's clerk, a privileged person who acted as bookkeeper, pursuer and cargo-master, was liable to be branded in the forehead, to lose his right hand, and to forfeit all his property if he made a wrong entry in the ship's book, or connived at such an entry.

A seaman who fell asleep on his watch was only put on a diet of bread and water, unless the offence was committed in hostile waters. In that case he was to be stripped naked, flogged by his messmates and ducked thrice in the sea.

If he were an officer, however, he would only lose all food except his bread, and have a pail of water flung over him from the head down.

Efficiency was the topic that was being discussed at a gabfest in a Washington club the other night.

When Congressman John G. Rother-mel, of Reading, was reminded of the declaration of an esteemed party named James.

The aforesaid James attended a circus some time since, where one of the big features of the show was a beautiful lion tamer. Entering the ring, followed by the lion, the fair charmer placed a lump of sugar between her pretty lips, which the lion took from her with his teeth. Instantly James sat upright and began to take notice.

"Great stunt, all right," he loudly shouted to the performer, "but I can do it, too!"

"Of course," scornfully replied the girl, who didn't appreciate having her act minimized, "but do you really think you can?"

"Most assuredly," was the prompt rejoinder of James, "just as well as the lion."

Rather Nasty

"Today makes twenty-five years since you and I have worked together, Tims," said Old Niggard, the man ufacturer. "And I have done well—very well."

"Yes, boss," answered Tims, thinking of his miserable thirty bob a week.

"Now, here is a little present that will please the wife and kiddies," said O.N., pressing a large blue envelope on his old workman.

"I'm sure, boss, it's very good—"
"Tut-tut! Don't mention it! Just cut along home, and not another word!"

With viscous of banknotes, crisp and crackly, Tims raced home with the gift, and amidst great excitement, opened it in the presence of his numerous family. To his amazement, old fell a portrait of his old governor.

"Well, Tims," said O.N. genially, next morning, "how did you like my little gift?"

"Oh," said Tims laconically, "it's just like yer!"

A teacher trying to impress on her children the rightness of kindness toward all animals, took them for a walk to bring the lesson home to them.

Hearing a scream from little Johnny, she added: "What's the matter, Johnny?"

"I've been stung by a hornet," was the tearful response, "and I'm afraid I've hurt the poor thing."

Teacher—Tommy, can you spell fur?

Tommy—Yes, ma'am. Fur.

Teacher—That's right. Now, Johnny, can you tell me what fur is?

Johnny—Ma'am. Fur is an awful long distance to go.

Tom's Favorite Diet

Dear old Uncle Podger was standing his nephew, Tom, a dinner and a seat at the pantomime to celebrate the last night of the young hopeful's holidays.

Tom had made the most of his opportunities, had struggled through the dinner to the bitter end and had arrived at a state in which the only thing left him was to envy the camel with his double outfit of storage room.

The waiter brought the bill, which his uncle paid with a ten-pound note.
Tom missed this part of the performance, and only woke up as the waiter returned with a plateful of sovereigns and half-crowns.

Tom was galvanized into life:
"Uncle," he gasped, "I should like a plate of that as well!"

Canadian Bank Earnings

It is estimated that in 1913 Canadian banks earned only 5.37 per cent of the capital invested. This is a smaller margin of profit than shown by National banks in the United States. Out of net profits Canadian banks distributed only 64 per cent.
in dividends, as compared with 74 per cent. distributed to shareholders by American institutions. The comparison is all in favor of Canadian banks.

DEATH OF A FAMOUS INVENTOR

GEORGE WESTINGHOUSE WAS ONE OF THE GREATEST INVENTORS OF MODERN TIMES

Was the Man Who Revolutionized Modern Methods of Transportation—Also Designed the Air Brake, His Famous Invention Proving a Huge Success.

George Westinghouse, who died recently in New York, aged 63, was one of the greatest inventors of modern times known all through the world as the inventor of the Westinghouse air-brake and many other devices and appliances which have completely revolutionized modern methods of transportation. He was born at Central Bridge, Schoharie county, New York, on October 6, 1846, the son of George and Emeline Vedder Westinghouse. His father's ancestors came from Germany and settled in Massachusetts and Vermont before the revolution. On his mother's side he came from Dutch-English stock.

The father of George Westinghouse was a mechanical engineer and an inventor of various mechanical appliances. In 1856 he removed to Schenectady, N.Y., where he established the Schenectady Agricultural Works. Young George received his early education in the public schools of Central Bridge and Schenectady and seemed to have inherited from his father not only love for mechanical science, but also inventive ability. He spent a great deal of his time in his father's factory and became thoroughly familiar with machinery and the mechanical principles upon which they were based. He was only fifteen years old when he made his first invention, a rotary engine, which he afterwards perfected.

As a young man he became interested in military matters and he became a member of the Twelfth Regiment of the New York National Guard. When the Civil War began he enlisted and served in the Sixteenth New York Cavalry from June 1863 until November, 1864, when he became an assistant engineer in the navy, serving on the Muscota and later in the Potomac fleet. After the close of the war he returned to Schenectady and entered Union College for a classical course.

Immediately after his return from the war young Westinghouse took up his mechanical work and studies and in the same year invented a device for placing railroad cars upon the track. He remained in college only to his sophomore year and devoted himself entirely to his work in the machine shop. He was only twenty years of age when he invented the air brake. Going to Troy one day, a delay, caused by a collision between two freight trains, suggested to Mr. Westinghouse the idea that a brake under the control of the engineer might have prevented the accident.

In his first experiments, he attempted to use steam for working the brakes, but the plan was not feasible, as experience showed. An article on the employment of compressed air in drilling the Mont Cenis tunnel suggested to Westinghouse to try compressed air instead of steam in evolving the Westinghouse air brake in its original form. The first patent on his invention was issued April 13, 1869, and in the following year the Westinghouse Air Brake Company was organized. The inventor found it very difficult at first to introduce his invention. The railroads had little confidence in the possibility of stopping a train with "wind." Westinghouse among other railroad magnates approached Commodore Vanderbilt, but the latter broke off the interview by saying "I have no time to waste with fools."

Young Westinghouse did not lose his courage, however, and at last succeeded in obtaining the consent of the superintendent of the Steubenville division of the Panhandle railroad to test the air brake on a train of cars. The trial took place in October, 1869, and proved a brilliant success. In fact, the air brakes proved the means of preventing a serious collision during the test. After that Mr. Westinghouse had no difficulty in obtaining hearings from railroad officials, and in a few years his air brake was introduced by the railroads throughout the country.

Mr. Westinghouse continued to improve his brake, and also made other inventions in railway signals, steam and gas engines, steam turbines, and electrical machinery. He was the pioneer in introducing alternating current machinery in America, which made possible the electrical transmission of water power. He established large works in the United States, England, France and Germany for the manufacture of air brakes and electrical machinery, and became the head of corporations representing a capitalization of more than $100,000,000 and giving employment to more than 25,000 men. In recognition of his eminent services to science and industry, foreign governments conferred decorations upon him, scientific societies made him honorary member, and Union College conferred upon him the honorary degree of Ph.D. In August, 1897, he married Margaret Erskine Walker in Brooklyn, who survives him, together with their only son, George Westinghouse, Jr.

Paris Police Begin System of Reform
The Paris police have begun the introduction of a system of moral reform in the public resorts of the city. Celestin Hennion, the prefect of police, summoned the proprietors of all the music and dance halls and concert cafes to the prefecture, where he informed them that exhibitions of undraped performers would in future not be tolerated. It is understood that this regulation will not apply to theatres, on the ground that what otherwise might be regarded as indecency is counteracted by the artistic value of the production.

MAY REPEL MARRIAGES

Warning Issued to Christian Women Who Wed Hindus or Mohammedans

The state department has issued public notice through the Canada Gazette and through despatches to the various provincial governments that marriages between women of British nationality, professing the Christian religion, and Moslems, Hindus, and other persons belonging to countries where polygamy or concubinage is legal, should not be allowed unless these women are first warned that such marriages may be repudiated by the husbands if they return to the country of their birth. The index of Hindus in British Columbia with the exclusion of their womankind, leads point to this warning.

The notice is given through the repetition of a circular received from the colonial office. This circular states that while the registrar of marriages has no power, according to British laws, to prevent such mixed marriages, care should be taken to make the position clear to every woman contemplating such union. It is pointed out that while the marriage would be valid as long as the husband remained in Canada it would not necessarily be valid if he returned to India or to his own Mohammedan country. Under the "personal" law, the Hindu may, if he desires, take other wives in addition to the first without consulting his Christian wife in any way. The forms observed at a marriage under British law are not necessarily recognized by Mohammedan law as giving any legal relationship and afford no protection to his wife in a country where Mohammedan law is observed. Where a marriage relationship is constituted which the Mohammedan husband may divorce his wife at will without any legal formality beyond that of repudiating her.

OWNERSHIP OF SPITZBERGEN

Scheme for International Control to Be Settled in June

Delegates from England, France, Holland, Germany, Denmark, Sweden, Russia and Norway will meet June 17 next to decide the status of Spitzbergen, those Arctic islands famous for the point of departure for many Arctic expeditions.

The congress is due to an invitation of the Norwegian government made five years ago. The powers which will be represented at Christiania next June are those which in the first instance signified their willingness to accept the Norwegian invitation. American participation is justified on the ground of the important coal mining interests in American hands. There are also four British companies engaged in the coal industry, which is the chief mineral exploited. The Germans possess an excellent meteorological and wireless telegraph station.

The problem of policing the islands has long been a pressing one, and this question has naturally formed the chief concern of the three Northern Powers, Norway, Sweden and Russia, who, by virtue of their special interests, have agreed to submit to the general conference a draft convention based upon a memorandum by the Norwegian government. By this agreement—if the original text is confirmed at the preliminary meeting on June 4—Spitzbergen is to be declared neutral territory open to all nations and under international control. The administration is to be in the hands of a commission composed of one representative for each of the three powers. The cost of administration is to be covered by land taxes and other taxes, which, however, are to be subject to the assent of all the signatory powers. Any deficit is to be charged to all the powers. It is proposed that the convention shall be renewable every eighteen years.

WHITE WOLF RAVAGES

Notorious Chinese Outlaw Ruthlessly Murdering and Pillaging

Outrages by brigands in Central China are assuming alarming proportions. Several bands associated with the noted outlaw, White Wolf, are ravaging various sections of the country, ruthlessly murdering and robbing the people and burning their property.

The latest exploit of the bandits was the massacre of 300 townsfolk who were resisting their entrance into an important market town close to Siang Yang Fu, province of Hu Pei. Seven-tenths of the town was burnt and the population ruined financially. On the occasion of the recent sacking of Tian Tso, province of Honan, the local troops made no effort to resist the brigands. The troops were commanded by a general, formerly a noted brigand chief, who was given his army appointment during the recent revolution.

The measure of the government to deal with the situation are totally inadequate and there is every prospect of the development of brigandage unless it is speedily controlled.

HAS TALKED 1,000,000 YEARS

Man Had Power of Speech in Pliocene Times, Scientists Say

The remarkable conclusion has been arrived at by putting two and two together in high expert pronouncements that man had the power of speech a million years ago.

This important point arises out of the address delivered before the Dublin Royal Society by Prof. Arthur Keith on the ancient Pittdown skull known as the Edanthropus Dawson.

If it be granted that Prof. Keith is right in fixing the date of the Edanthropus as a Pliocene, and that Prof. Elliott Smith, who also examined the discovery, is right in interpreting the features of the brain as indicative of speech, the remarkable revelation is made that mankind in the Pliocene period, a million years ago, or even more, had the power of forming and communicating ideas by means of speech.

TO BETTER CONDITIONS

Late Jos. Fels' Fortune to Be Devoted to Charitable and Sociological Activities

Excepting $50,000 devised to a friend, Walter Coates of Middlebrough, Yorkshire, England, who was his private secretary, the widow of Joseph Fels, millionaire manufacturer and economist, becomes possessed of her husband's vast estate to carry on the charitable and sociological activities of her husband.

The document appointed Mrs. Fels' daughter and Camille Fels, brothers, and Mr. Coates, to be executors. Walter Coates has already declared that Mrs. Fels is preparing a list of movements, settlements and enterprises of her husband, which will be maintained and extended by her, as his successor. Mrs. Fels, for many years was her husband's intimate counsellor and co-worker, in his varied activities.

Of these plans, Mr. Coates says: "Though the partnership between husband and wife has been dissolved by death, the business in which they shared interest, that of bettering the condition of humanity, will be foremost in the mind of the surviving widow."

The vacant lot movement here and abroad will continue to enlist the philanthropist's widow.

Mr. Coates declared the experiment in farm labor colonies, established with Mr. Fels' assistance in England, where able bodied paupers are being put to work to earn their living by cultivating the ground, will be among the movements most sure to retain the support of the Fels fortune.

Those families who are living on the small holdings in colonization trade possible, need not fear for their homes. The fruit growers at Pershore, in Worcestershire, England, the colonies of craftsmen he established and the model villages he helped, will not be disbanded because of lack of sustaining and encouraging interest.

It is estimated that Mr. Fels gave away more than $250,000 every year toward the single tax propaganda. He contributed $25,000 a year to the Jos. Fels' fund of America, gave $25,000 annually in Great Britain in his various colonies and spent $5,000 each in Denver and Canada.

SHED LIGHT ON HISTORY

Sir John A. Macdonald's Papers and Letters Are Placed in Archives

A remarkable collection of documents and letters bearing upon the political history of Canada and regarded as one of the most valuable ever handed over to the archives of Canada, has just been presented to that institution by Sir Joseph Pope. It comprised all of the correspondence and papers of Sir John A. Macdonald and covers the whole of the great premier's life from boyhood almost to the day of his death. The papers number nearly 100,000.

On the death of Sir John a stipulation was made that these documents should be withheld from public use for a stated period, and they have remained in the custody of his former secretary and biographer, Sir Joseph Pope. This restriction has now been removed, except with respect to certain papers bearing upon questions still before the country and relating to persons who are still living.

All the papers have been well preserved and are invaluable in their bearing upon the political history of the country covering as they do in closest detail the period from 1867 to 1892. They are now being bound for transfer to the archives, where they will shortly be available for public inspection. They shed new light on some of the events of Canada's history.

A GERMAN WAR PROPHECY

Scheidermann Says No More Strife in Western Europe

Philip Scheidermann, first vice-president of the German Reichstag and a distinguished leader of the Social-Democratic party of Germany, visiting St. Louis, assured the Post-Dispatch there will never be another war in Western Europe. The workmen of Germany, France and Great Britain, he said, are organized, as Socialists, in opposition to war, and are resolved not to fight each other at the command of their rulers.

This prophecy, if perhaps premature, is encouraging. The heaviest burden borne by the workers of Europe is the cost of military armaments. The fear of war dictates ever-increasing expenditures to prepare for it. The widening scope of free public education and the rise of a free press has armed the workers with the facts. Even the great mass of Germany and France are schools educating the rank and file to detect militarism. The Socialists may never realize their dream of common ownership of all the sources of wealth; but if their propaganda will abolish, or even in large degree abate, the cost of militarism, it will have conferred an enormous benefit upon mankind.

A Country of Young People

Census Bulletin XVIII, just issued, deals with the Ages of the People, and contains six tables in a pamphlet of 34 pages. The tables show that the largest proportions of young men and women are found in the western provinces. Thus whilst the proportion per 1,000 of the population between the ages of 20-44 for all Canada is 235, the figures for British Columbia are 533, for Alberta 458, for Saskatchewan 451 and for Manitoba 417. The proportion decreases eastward until in Prince Edward Island it is 311. That Canada is pre-eminently a country of young people is evidenced by the fact that 813 persons in every 1,000 of known age are under 45. In this respect, the large annual immigration is the controlling factor.

Lobsters are now caught with a snag consisting of a circle of hooks hanging under a piece of bait.

GROWTH OF THE PEACE RIVER AREA

PRESIDENT OF THE NORTH TELLS WONDERFUL TALE OF THE RESOURCES OF THE NEW DISTRICT

H. Haskins Says the Development of the Peace River Country Within the Short Space of Three or Four Years Has Been Enormous and Civilization is Pushing Northward.

H. Haskins, who visited Victoria, B.C., recently from Pouce Coupe, in the Peace river country, gave an account of that district which is full of interest. On his way out to Edson recently, he met 400 settlers' teams going in. Hundreds more will be going in weekly by other routes, via Lesser Slave lake, and even by Pine Pass from Fort George.

Mr. Haskins himself has established a store at Dawson Creek, on the Pouce Coupe river, which runs into the Peace just to the east of the dividing line between B.C. and Alberta. He is in the big block surveyed and held by the Dominion government for settlers, which is being settled up rapidly. The country on both sides of the Pouce Coupe river is prairie to the extent of some 200,000 acres, and is already a name to conjure with among the intending immigrants from the Edmonton side.

The climate of this country seems to be delightful, both in summer and winter, and some idea of the short duration of snow will be gained from the fact that the snow was beginning to melt from the trail out even on March 1. This year the snow did not begin to lie till the middle of January. In the summer, the big brown mesquite is thick on human skin and animal hide for about a month, and following him comes the season of the mosquitoes, but it is by no means general to wear mosquito bar in the Pouce Coupe.

Agricultural Wealth

Grain and many varieties of vegetables grow in the utmost profusion, said Mr. Haskins, and there is an excellent market for everything that can be grown. Last season, Mr. Tromley, a settler, who has been on Dawson creek or the last eleven years, grew fifteen tons of potatoes, and then Mr. Haskins had to bring his supply from lower down the Peace, at Dunvegan. "Barley, oats, onions, wheat, turnips—to mention a few things—all do exceedingly well, and large quantities of cereals were grown in the Peace district last season."

The development of this new country within the short space of three or four years has been enormous, and the settler who goes in now is by no means leaving civilization behind him. At Grande Prairie and Saskatoon lake are a branch of the Bank of Commerce, a flour mill, sawmills and three stores, and another sawmill is to be established by Mr. Tromley on Dawson creek.

Another town which Mr. Haskins says is going ahead is that of Peace river crossing, where ranches within one mile of the river are selling for large sums, and where a fine hotel has been put up.

Transportation Facilities

Three railway companies with four lines are racing each other into the very heart of this country. The Dunvegan and Edmonton line now runs trains to the east end of the Lesser Slave Lake, and is surveyed to the Big Smoky river, where it will send a branch down to Peace River crossing and another to Grande Prairie and Dunvegan. The Canadian Northern plans another line along the north shore of Lesser Slave Lake, and has pushed up from the south to the McLeod river on its way to Grand Prairie, Pouce Coupe and beyond. Its surveys have been extended to Swan Lake, and must run, Mr. Haskins says up Dawson creek. From the west, the Pacific Great Eastern is surveyed to the east from Pine Pass. All these railways will be into this country three years from now, and its residents believe that huge fortunes await the man who goes in at once.

Settlers are already proving up on some homesteads and coming out. These men are ready to sell teams, machinery and so on, though, of course, the price in there is not cheap.

A Great Future

Mr. Haskins believes the country will have a great future in its stock, especially in pigs fattened on the peavine which grows so thick it is hard to force a way through it when on foot.

Prairie chickens and rabbits abound everywhere. Bears and moose are numerous, and good trapping is done there in the winter. Coyotes run but never seem to do any harm, possibly owing to the plentifulness of the rabbit.

Canada seems to be fully alive to the possibilities of this, her newest country. Large stockmen from the prairies were up looking over miles of country last summer. Lumbermen have their eyes upon the fine timber belts of the head of the Little Smoky river and other localities, and Mr. Haskins considers it would be a bold man who would prophesy the number of people that the end of the present summer will find located on the land there.

Theodore's Troubles
The loss of all the equipment of Theodore Roosevelt's party in the unexplored wilds of Central Brazil is reported in a cable message from Anthony Fiala, a member of the party. The message from Santarem, Brazil, is as follows: "We have lost everything in the rapids. Phone my wife of my safety."

The rapids mentioned are presumed to be those of a tributary of the Amazon river, Santarem, from which place the dispatch was sent, is in the state of Para, at the confluence of the Tapajos river with the Amazon.

WANT BRITISH PICTURES

Lack of British Films in Canadian Movie Shows in Cause of Much Complaint

Several correspondents, writing from Canada to the Daily Mail, complain of the lack of patriotic energy on the part of the British film producers, which allows the Dominion to be flooded with moving pictures of American subjects.

One correspondent expresses the hope that the British army film which shows completely the life of Tommy Atkins will also be exhibited in the Dominion. He concluded his letter by declaring that this would certainly cause a more martial spirit in Canada as well as a strong imperial link.

Your correspondent is informed to day that the army film will shortly be sent on a tour across Canada, and will also visit Australia. This tour will be under the auspices of the British war office, but the cost is being guaranteed privately.

Regarding the flood of American films in Canada crowding the market from British films, several London purchasers explained that they originally sold the entire rights to New York exchanges, and that these rights included Canada, but now the Dominion has become such a large field that none of these contracts are being renewed without a revision which retains for the British company alone the right to exhibit in Canada.

Several London production companies have lately been preparing special films for the Dominion. One of these was the plains of Abraham and around Quebec. It is described as an accurate historic account of the British conquest of Canada.

Several others which have been taken in the Rocky Mountains with an English company will be released in about a month.

"Even apart from patriotic motives, we look upon Canada as a lucrative field, and another year should see a score of English producers with Canadian agencies," declared one of the leading British directors whose name is a big one in the moving picture world.

Famous Winters in Paris

In Paris, the comparatively cold weather with which Europe has been favored during the past winter has led to much writing on the subject of famous winters. The fifteenth century might justly be called the cold century, says the Petit Journal.

"In 1408 the registrars of the parliament of Paris reported that it was impossible to issue any of its resolutions, because the ink froze in the ink bottles of the clerks; every three words they had to thaw their pens, and this with a fire roaring in their room. Every river in France was frozen, and not a mill could work. Twelve years later, in 1420, there was a repetition of this winter. Food-stuffs gave out and poor people died by tens of thousands."

"In 1422 in less than three days the wine and the vinegar froze in the cellars; cocks and hens had their combs frozen; the streets were full of people who danced, jumped, wrestled and ran races, anything to keep off frostbite."

"In 1430 it froze for more than two and a half months and the snow fell for 40 days without stopping. All the birds hidden in the trunks of trees died."

"In 'the year of the great winter,' as 1603 was called, hundreds of persons died from cold; everything was frozen hard, even the bread served at the table of Henry IV. In 1709 all the wheat was destroyed and a new sowing had to be made in the spring. Buffon relates that no bread was to be had, even Mme. de Maintenon had to go without it."

"In 1776 sentinels were found frozen to death outside Versailles, and the king put a stop to this service. In Paris great bonfires were lit in the streets. Bells were shivered into pieces as they rang; clocks stopped and in the cellars wine turned into ice. Hares and partridges came into the towns and hid themselves in the nooks and corners of houses, where they were subsequently found as stiff as a board and quite inedible."

RESOURCES OF SASKATCHEWAN

Parisian Publication to Bring Understanding of Conditions in the West

Under the title of "La Saskatchewan, Essai de Monographie Provinciale Canadienne," a volume of more than 100 pages, illustrated with maps and reproductions of photographs of Saskatchewan scenes, has been published in Paris, France, by Louis Gilbert, for the purpose of bringing to the French people accurate knowledge of conditions in Saskatchewan. The book has been published at the offices of "La Canadienne," a periodical which is devoted to the enlightenment of the French public upon Canadian affairs.

Information relative to the agricultural resources of Saskatchewan, to the wealth of the northern portion of the province in lumber, is contained in the volume, and all reliable recent statistics. Every phase of the business and social life of the province is dealt with. The handbook contains a number of views of Saskatoon and other Saskatchewan cities.

In the preface, M. Gilbert states that the greater part of the information to be found in the volume has been furnished by T. Cromie, the provincial statistician, and he expresses high appreciation of assistance which Mr. Cromie has given.

Injustice to Doctors

A deputation of prominent doctors waited on Provincial Treasurer Lucas at the parliament buildings and protested against the Workmen's Compensation act, or rather that section of it which, they claim, leaves the medical men out in the cold in case of first aid to the injured. As the act now stands, if a man is injured and a doctor is called, the doctor can come down on neither the victim of the accident nor the government for fees. Medical men regard this as an injustice to their profession.

TELLS OF ESKIMO IN GREAT NORTHLAND

THEY HAVE SOME VERY GOOD QUALITIES, BUT THEIR MANNERS AND CUSTOMS ARE VERY CRUDE

Father Morice, Celebrated Scientist, and Special Professor in Anthropology to the University of Saskatchewan, Gives Some Interesting Information about Strange People.

Father Morice, the celebrated scientist and special professor in anthropology to the University of Saskatchewan, delivered the second of a series of lectures on the native races of America recently in a Convocation Hall. The lecture was about the Eskimos, the second lowest race in the social scale of Aborigines.

The Eskimau is a most unique nation, an Arctic tribe entirely different from other peoples. Their territory is about 5,000 miles in length extending from Mt. Elias to Greenland. They call themselves, not Eskimau, which signifies, "Eaters of Raw Meat," but "Innuh," meaning men. In common with other primitive peoples they believe that in them is incarnated the very essence of humanity.

In winter, the ice-belt of this wonderful race may be found as far north as sixty degrees. On account of their unique position they like what the white race abhors and vice versa. In New York with the temperature below zero an Eskimau girl remarked that she felt rather warm and was glad that she had left in the north her usual fur garments.

The similarity in language of such a primitive people scattered so widely is remarkable. The ending, "muit," which means the same as "man" in Saxonian is universal with them.

Where They Are Found

There are three great divisions of the race; the west shore of Greenland, population 10,000, and Labrador, 13,288, the Alents 9,600 and the Uti 1,200, living both in Asia and America. In account of remarkable differences in physical characteristics many scientists consider them as not Indians. Their color is brown, features large and Mongolian, with small eyes and tapering bowl-shaped skull.

In habits the Eskimau is very playful, honest in his own tribe, but an inveterate thief with strangers. It is no shame for him to steal provided he isn't discovered.

An interesting description illustrated by the Eskimau drawing, was given of the prevailing styles of dress. The only distinguishing feature between the sexes' apparel is that the women's garments are adorned with a long fur tail behind. Her hair is rather elaborately dressed and tattoo marks about mouth and eyes accentuate her natural beauty.

How They Live

The Eskimau means of existence is hunting, mostly seal, which is the chief economic factor, yielding garments, food and combustibles for light and cooking. The ingenious methods of baiting the wily animal were explained.

The kayak or Indian canoe, the summer essential of the Eskimau hunter, is a most peculiar little craft absolutely unsinkable. In the large boats the social order is clearly defined, first the man who acts as steersman, the stranger, the dogs and finally the women who ply the oars. The Eskimau, judges Father Morice, here shows himself above the Indian in his use of oars and also of sails. Also his sleigh used in winter is superior, having runners, and his manner of hitching the dogs quite different from the ordinary Indian file. A most interesting, illustrated description was given of the Eskimau snow huts or igloos. The central or living room is guarded from the elements by a series of entrances. The peculiar elevated beds in the northern home are heated by lamps of soapstone containing for fuel, blubber with wicks of moss. A wile visitor at first could hardly bear the cold, but finally becomes most comfortably warm. He was rather amazed to find that the Eskimau manner of adjusting body temperature was to remove the clothing completely, this primitive custom not being hampered by any sense of modesty.

Woman Has Low Standing
The status of women was defined as being slightly below the dog. Her body after death is not considered worthy of burial as is the man's, but may be eaten by dogs. That the people have a firm belief in immortality was shown by a dying girl's request for a little tobacco and a piece of bread for her mother, who had died but a little while before. The Eskimau believe in hundreds of superstitions clustered around their women especially during motherhood when they are barred from eating the table delicacy raw-fish and submitted to many other restrictions.

Contempt for Indian

The Eskimau is by nature athletic and in bone carrying far above the Indian. He considers other people as brothers, white or brown, but the Indian he holds in contempt and designates as the offspring of his vermin. The reverend father concluded a very entertaining lecture with a story of a meeting in 1850 on the Mackenzie river of a small party of white men, a bunch of Eskimau with arrows and fourteen Indians or children of Ltee, armed with guns. Influenced by the whites these two savage bodies engaged in trade. Afterwards the Eskimau landed and were entertained at a dance. Being men only of course, the Father said, they did not tango. While the whites were warming themselves at a nearby camp-fire the treacherous Redskins literally massacred the trusting Eskimau. Today, however, conditions have greatly improved.—Saskatoon Star.

Berlin is said to be the quietest city in Europe, if not the world. All unnecessary noises are prohibited.
